HIT AT GERMAN "ESCAPE" LANE

Russian Threaten Main Retreat Route Near Smolensk

(By Associated Press)

Russian armies drove a spearhead against the heart of the German "escape corridor" from Moscow today, sharply threatening the main Nazi route of retreat to the capture of Dorogobuzh, only 15 miles south of the Moscow-Smolensk, key German base on the Moscow front.

At the same time, the British radio reported that the Red armies had also captured the town of Penino, 14 miles north of the beleaguered Nazi base at Rzhev which in turn is 125 miles northwest of Moscow, and guards the north flank of the withdrawing Nazi invaders.

Berlin several days ago reported heavy fighting south of Rzhev. Adolf Hitler's field headquarters indicated they believed their sons had been exempted.

"Only ministers and divinity students are exempt under the act," said Col. C. W. Goble, director, "and no classification is permanent."

Typical of requests received, a headquarters spokesman said, was that of a mother whose eldest son had been deferred as wartime chemist. The mother asked that a younger son studying chemistry also be deferred "so he won't be drafted."

Two-A or Two-B are the usual classifications given men deferred as "necessary" in industry, business, employment, agriculture, governmental or other service.

For Six Months
Class Two-A deferments are for a maximum of six months, after which local boards are required to reconsider the classification. An additional deferment for not longer than six months may be granted but at the end of the period the case must be reviewed again.

Headquarters spokesmen explained that Two-A deferments were made with the express understanding that employers would seek satisfactory replacements promptly and report to the deferred men's draft boards when replacements had been obtained.

Two-B deferments, for registrants necessary to the war production program, are not limited to a specific period but draft headquarters emphasized such cases may be reopened for possible reclassification at any time.

Summing up their observations, headquarters spokesmen cited the words of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director who said:

"Every American family must have come by now to know that the time is past when it may cherish first its rights and privileges.

"Deferments are temporary and will become necessary to withdraw many of them in the national interest."

DRAFT DEFERMENT IS NOT EXEMPTION

State's Selective Service Headquarters Makes Distinction Plain

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24.—There's a vast difference between draft deferments and exemptions.

State selective service headquarters reported today that communications from numerous parents of men deferred from military service indicated they believed their sons had been exempted.

"Only ministers and divinity students are exempt under the act," said Col. C. W. Goble, director, "and no classification is permanent."

Typical of requests received, a headquarters spokesman said, was that of a mother whose eldest son had been deferred as wartime chemist. The mother asked that a younger son studying chemistry also be deferred "so he won't be drafted."

JAPANESE SEA RULE 'WANING'

So Declares Churchill: Nippon Air Power Is Acknowledged

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons today that Japan rules the air and is exercising a temporary and "waning" command of the sea in the area of her operations, but he predicted a final victory, which he said might come unexpectedly, over the Axis.

The Japanese also are employing numerically superior land forces of about 26 divisions—probably 390,000 combat troops and 100,000 additional men in supply and auxiliary forces—in the ABDA (American, British, Dutch, Australian) area, he added, and their command of the air "makes it costly and difficult for our air reinforcements to establish themselves and secure dominance."

First Attack On Mainland
It was the first attack upon the United States soil in this war, although Japanese submarines off the Pacific coast and German submarines off the Atlantic have sunk some ships and damaged others.

Once before, in the World War, a German submarine disguised as a freighter, shelled the mainland in an attack on a tug and a string of barges off Orleans, Mass. Only casualties were a helmsman, who lost part of a hand.

Witnesses said the first shell was fired at 7:10 p. m. (10:10 p. m. EWT) and that the attack continued until 7:35 p. m. twilight.

The coast was blacked out at 8 p. m., from Goleta 25 miles south to Carpinteria. Radios only were silenced in the remainder of southern California. The all clear was given at 12:12 a. m., 3:12 a. m. EWT.

Several flares were sighted just off the coast during the blackout. Police at Ventura, 27 miles south of here, presumed they were dropped by U. S. airplanes searching for the submarine. However, army officials gave out no information.

G. O. Brown, an oil worker off duty, said the submarine was only a mile offshore and "so big I thought it might be a destroyer or cruiser. I have seen many submarines off the coast."

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Feb. 24.—An enemy submarine fired its reply to President Roosevelt's war address in the very middle of his chat last night—25 shells badly aimed toward an oil field and refinery near Goleta, seven miles north of here.

Witnesses said the shells, presumably of the shrapnel type, exploded large volumes of fire from beaches and pastures, frightened horses into screaming madly—but hit only one well. The pumping plant and derrick of that well were damaged. However, no fires were started. No one was killed or injured.

Sub Shells U. S. Coast As Roosevelt Reports On War

Even as President Roosevelt warned the nation to expect further reverses and called for sacrifice on the part of everyone, a raiding submarine fired noisy, but inaccurate shells at an oil refinery on the west coast last night. The President is pictured above as he pointed to a large map just before beginning his report to the nation.

Sub Fires at Coast as President Warns, "Expect Further Reverses"

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Roosevelt admonished the American people last night to prepare themselves for further reverses on the war fronts, and even as he spoke an enemy submarine was raking a spot on the California coast with gunfire.

By the grimmest coincidence, the bombardment opened up just before Mr. Roosevelt reached that portion of his speech in which he declared that the nation also could expect to suffer continuing losses at the hands of Axis under-sea raiders in both Atlantic and Pacific "before the turn of the tide."

To speed the turn of that tide, Mr. Roosevelt called for "uninterrupted production" to build up an overwhelming superiority of war supplies for the ultimate grand offensives of the united nations.

Voice Is Sharp

The President's voice was sharp as he stressed the two words—"uninterrupted production."

Mr. Roosevelt was unaware of the California coast bombardment while he delivered his 35-minute radio address to the nation and to much of the world, but he said early in his talk that the battle ahead was "warfare in terms of every continent, every island, every sea, every air-lane in the world."

The capital was not unduly surprised to learn of the bombardment—indeed the likelihood of such sporadic raids was foreseen in competent quarters here early in December when the first Japanese submarine appeared off the Pacific coast.

The immediate reaction was that such forays showed a poor understanding of American psychology, and that, instead of creating mortal terror, they would have the opposite effect of making the people fighting mad.

And fighting mad people, many thought, would rise at once to the "prodigious effort" to which President Roosevelt summoned the United States last night.

"So Little Time"
"The task that we Americans now face will test us to the uttermost," the commander-in-chief declared. "Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much."

The President's address had both a somber side and an encouraging side.

The Axis, he reported, was exerting every ounce of strength, striving against time, in a supreme effort to destroy the lines of communications linking the United States with its allies.

F. D. R. Pares Losses At Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Roosevelt's report on Pearl Harbor last night indicated American losses considerably lower than the previous official totals.

Here is the comparison:

FDR Prev. Dcr. Inc.
Ships lost 3 5 2
Men killed 2,340 2,897 557
Men wounded 946 879 67

Secretary Knox's report had said that the navy lost the battleship Arizona, the target ship Utah, the destroyers Cassin, Downes and Shaw, and the mainlayer Oglala. This list was reduced by one when the Shaw was reclaimed and reached the west coast under her own power for repairs.

The President did not indicate which two of the remaining five vessels might also be restored to service.

The previous official casualty total came from combined army and navy reports.

DRASTIC INCREASE IN TAXES IS SEEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Treasury and congressional tax experts were reported today to have agreed to recommend drastic increases in corporation taxes, individual income taxes and excise levies to help raise $7,000,000,000 additional revenue.

Well-informed Capitol sources said that the conferees virtually had decided that new sources such as a general sales tax and a special war profits tax were not practicable at present.

A decision to continue to use the present bases for taxation, it was understood, would not rule out sharply-accelerated levies upon corporations with lucrative government war contracts.

The 1941 bill, designed to raise $3,500,000,000 above the then-current revenue, laid heavy emphasis on corporate and individual levies, increased the excises on such things as distilled spirits and added new taxes on telephone bills, jewelry and so on.

President Roosevelt, in his budget message last month, called for another $7,000,000,000 in general revenue, plus $2,000,000,000 in added social security levies.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) announced yesterday that the house ways and means committee would start hearings on the new tax program next Tuesday.

U. S. SPEEDING FLOW OF LEND-LEASE AID

Rate Is More Than Tripled Since Pearl Harbor, Senate Told

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The rate of lend-lease aid to the United Nations has tripled since Pearl Harbor, it was disclosed today in an official report.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., the lend-lease administrator, said in testimony made public by the senate appropriations committee that, during the first 8½ months of the program, such aid averaged about $141,000,000 monthly, compared with $338,000,000 in December and $462,000,000 in January.

He also disclosed that the air ferrying service across the Atlantic to the Middle East, created last summer and operated with lend-lease funds, had been extended "so that the bombers for our fighting forces, as well as those of our allies, can be flown by that route to the fighting areas of the southern Pacific."

Lend-lease aid to the Free French and the free Belgians contributes to protection of the route across Africa, he said. Bases in Scotland and northern Ireland, built with lend-lease funds, are now available for American troops, he added.

From March to the end of November, lend-lease aid totaled $1,262,000,000, and by the end of January had reached more than $2,000,000,000 and was still climbing at an accelerated pace Stettinius reported.

"This increase must and will continue," Stettinius said in asking that $5,330,000,000 in direct lend-lease funds voted by the house, plus an additional $95,000,000 be incorporated in the pending $32,762,737,950 supplemental defense appropriation.

Stettinius said that the requested new appropriation was to meet lend-lease requirements for the remainder of 1942, exclusive of military and naval material. He said virtually all of $12,985,000,000 previously appropriated for lend-lease had been allocated for procurement.

Old Destroyer And Stores Ship Go Down Off Newfoundland

BOTH TURNED INTO WRECKAGE QUICKLY

Number Of Seamen Saved By Residents Of Lawrence

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—A United States destroyer and a naval stores ship have been pounded to pieces off the rocky east coast of Newfoundland in a roaring gale, the navy announced today, with a loss of at least 189 officers and men.

Among the dead was Lieutenant Commander Ralph Hickox, 38, of Washington, D. C., who commanded the destroyer, the Truxtun, an old four-stacker of World War vintage. The commander of the stores ship, the Pollux, was not identified but the navy reported him safe.

Battered Into Wreckage

The heavy loss of life was attributed to the fact that the two ships, constituting a portion of a convoy, were torn to pieces under the merciless battering of wind and waves very quickly after they ran aground.

The double disaster occurred in daylight but visibility was extremely low. The frothy currents set up by the dashing of the waters against rocks and reefs made the coast line indistinct and regular aids to navigation were obscured by low sweeping scud. The point at which the ships went aground was described as near the entrance to Lawrence harbor on which is located the town of Lawrence, Newfoundland.

Residents of that place were praised by the navy for their heroic efforts in pulling such men as survived through the icy storm-tossed seas to safety.

The certain dead aboard the Truxtun were placed at 7 officers and 99 men and there was a possibility that three more deaths would be confirmed later, the navy said. Dead aboard the Pollux were 1 officer and 91 men.

Rig Up Breeches Buoy
Efforts to put lines ashore from the stricken vessels failed. A breeches buoy finally was rigged to a ledge at sea level, but some survivors were washed away before they could be gotten to the top of the cliff that lined the rocky coast.

The Truxtun, the navy said, broke up almost immediately after grounding and soon afterward the Pollux also went to pieces under the pounding of the violent seas.

Such aid survive owe their rescue in large measure, the navy declared, to the "tireless, efficient" and in many cases heroic action of the people of St. Lawrence, Newfoundland.

U. S. COURT GIVEN OBJECTOR'S CASE

Columbiana county draft board No. 2, of Salem, today referred to United States district court officials the case of Samuel Cooper, Middleton Quaker who refused to register in the third draft a week ago Saturday.

The 38-year old Middleton store proprietor, who faces the possibility of going to prison, appeared at the Salem draft board's branch office in Columbiana Feb. 14—the day the 20-to-44-year old men were registered—to inform the clerks he would not register.

Cooper, a conscientious objector, explained that even the registration was in violation of his religious beliefs. A district inspector of the state selective service system talked with Cooper at length in an effort to get him to sign, draft board officials said.

ASIATIC REVOLUTION

Running through all news from Asia is the theme of incipient revolution against domination by foreign powers.

Ultimate extent of the damage that may be done is problematic. Foreign prestige, which means so much by oriental standards, already has been undermined irreparably. But whether or not the Japanese will be able to capitalize on their demonstration of strength remains to be seen.

Like the Germans, who would like to organize continental Europe to suit themselves, the Japanese are handicapped by the means chosen to spread their influence.

The situation in the Philippines presents a microcosm of the Asiatic situation in general. There has been discontent with domination by the United States. But few Filipinos are convinced there would be less discontent with domination by Japan. Filipinos see more clearly now than they did formerly that there is no hope of independence, except that offered by the nation which may be able to save them from Japan.

Walter Lippmann's thesis that a war of liberation is being fought in Asia must be surrounded with reservations. The result of Japan's defeat would be to dissolve threat of domination from that quarter. It would not be to create the prospect of complete self-government, however.

AMERICAN CREDO

The apparently successful resistance to Japanese invaders of Bali has strengthened the American credo for World War II. It is simple—Given anything close to an even match, the anti-Asia powers can more than take care of themselves.

On the few occasions when they have had the equipment, particularly the airplanes, they have acquitted themselves creditably. The Russians, with an army noted at the outset only for the uncertainty of its quality, have made history with their battle against Germany; the British have fought the world's greatest air force to a standstill; the Americans and the Dutch, united in the defense of Java, have thrown a wrench into at least one part of the carefully planned Japanese offensive; and in the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur and his vest pocket army still were giving considerably more than they were taking at last reports. In a real sense, the American credo that all the United Nations need for victory is close to an even break is the basic policy of the whole war. If an even break had been in sight at the outset, the aggressor governments never would have gone to war in the first place.

WHY YES, SO 'TIS

The ocean demands originality. Somebody will think of something sparkling to say about it, and it will make all unimaginative comments seem dull as ditch water. The boys are going south to the big league baseball training camps. Another season is on the way. Soon there'll be robins hopping on the lawns and hollering at dawn; crocus blossoms bursting in sheltered places; mid-days when the sun will tempt a householder to sit on the back steps for five minutes; the sweetly intoxicating smell of another spring approaching; and then one day it will be time for another baseball season to start, proving that winter's over. And all this will have taken place just as though nothing else on earth were more important. Somebody should be able to think of something original to say about that, even if it has been happening for the last trillion years.

MEMO TO THE NEXT GENERATION

Be advised that in 1942, when a ship was worth its weight in gold, the supreme court settled in favor of Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. a case in which the government contended it had been coerced and overcharged more than 20 years before, in another war when ships were worth their weight in gold.

The jurist who wrote the opinion gave it to another jurist to read; he had been invited to attend the launching of a new battleship, desperately needed to forestall a plan to destroy the sovereignty of the United States. He pointed out that every war had created openings for high profits, that the openings had been utilized, that this might be morally wrong, but that he didn't see what could be done about it unless somebody passed a law to prohibit ships becoming worth their weight in gold in wartime.

Please remember this when the post-mortem on the cost of World War II is held.

EXCELLENT auguries are found in this day's astrological map, for a definite advance on the road to progress, achievement, promotion and successful enterprise. It is a time for forging ahead to high goals, with the promise of cooperation and solid support from influential persons in both business and professional ambitions. Moneys may increase and credits be put on a secure basis by sound business planning, as well as speculative enterprise. Travel, change, litigation, writings, agencies all thrive, but guard against fraud, treachery and intrigue.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of excellent opportunity for reaching high goals of achievement and satisfaction, through sound business policies, professional cleverness and financial strategies in which change and speculation play a part, and superiors, influential persons and trusted friends assist. Be alert to snares or hidden plots from treacherous sources. Young folks are favored and there may be happy change, travel, and success through writings, literary or artistic pursuits.

A child born on this day will have great versatility for success in business, professional, literary or artistic pursuits. It will find high favor and support from those in influential places, but may suffer from imposition.

SPEED ARMS OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—War production officials have decided on a promotion campaign to speed America's arms output by making workers feel their importance and responsibility in the war.

It was learned that the program awaits only the nod from President Roosevelt and that War Production Director Donald M. Nelson would accept leadership in the campaign.

As tentatively outlined, these are its main features: 1. Special recognition for meritorious performances by individual workers, with emphasis on ideas for production shortcuts instead of on "speed ups" which would result in fatigue and rejected war materials;

2. Awards to plants turning in notable production jobs, similar to the present navy award of the "E" flag for excellence to ahead-of-schedule shipyards;

3. Trips for foremen and workers to summer army maneuvers to permit them to see the actual operation of the tanks, halftracks, guns and trucks so that they can visualize field conditions and shape their work accordingly.

4. Reports by commanders at the fighting fronts on exceptional performances of planes, vehicles and weapons in actual combat; these reports would be relayed, with public commendations, to the plants which contributed the material, as an incentive to build more and better weapons of the type, and as a standard for competitors to meet.

It was understood the program already has received approval of high labor quarters. This was said to have been a delicate point because of labor's suspicion of anything smacking of "speedup."

Presently under contemplation is a four-or-five-month promotion effort, lasting into midsummer, after which the program is expected to move ahead on its own momentum.

DRUGS CAUSE GENERAL BODY CHANGES

Act Either On Nerves Or By Shifting Blood Masses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

COMMON BELIEF has it that the doctor's knowledge of drugs is more superstition than science. It is hit or miss; nobody can tell whether a drug is going to do any good or not. The average sick man takes a drug, expecting it to sort of explode somewhere down inside and the result will be good, bad or indifferent.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The real truth is that pharmacology, which is the study of the action of drugs, is one of the most scientific departments of medicine.

Most valuable drugs act either directly on the nervous system or by changing blood masses from one part of the body to the other.

This can be illustrated by referring to two widely known, habitually used drugs, alcohol and tobacco. Alcohol exerts its effects almost entirely by its action on the nervous system. Tobacco has a particular affinity for changing the size of small blood vessels and hence blood flow. All its bad effects come from this action.

Depressants and Stimulants

Drugs either depress or stimulate the nervous system. Thus opium and its derivatives act by sedation of the pain centers of the brain. Also through the automatic nervous system, morphine dries up secretions, stops the action of the salivary glands and the movement of involuntary muscles in the intestines, bronchial tubes and the uterus.

Such hypnotics as veronal and the other barbiturates act by special sedation of the intellectual center of the brain. That is why they produce sleep.

Belladonna

Belladonna, or its derivative atropine, works largely on the automatic nervous system, blocking one part of it. The automatic nervous system consists of two sets of fibers that are not under the control of the will, and which control the unconscious movements of the body. These two sets of fibers are called the vagus and the sympathetic. The whole human race has been divided into two groups, with one or the other part of this subconscious nervous system predominant.

The mousetrap factory makes many mousetraps. Because it makes many, it can make them cheaper.

In this way, people get better mousetraps for less money, and they don't have to go to the mousetrap maker to get them.

This isn't true only of mousetraps. People depend on advertising to find the best values in—

They rely on newspaper advertisements for information about these articles because there they can see them pictured, read about their merits, learn their prices and find out where to buy them.

What's more, people believe this advertising.

"THURSDAY'S CHILD" by VERA BROWN

FROM THE OLD RHYME: "THURSDAY'S CHILD HAS FAR TO GO"

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

When the Count brought Sonny home that night, he wanted to stay and talk to her, but she evaded him. She wanted to be rid of him quickly. There was something he had to do. She had made up her mind at last.

When he had gone, she went to the telephone. The sleepy night operator was a long time getting her message. She sent off a cable to Kirk: "I want to come home. May I?"

She hoped he would understand all that she had liked to include in that message.

Next day she waited, desperately patient for his reply. When there was no word by noon, she was frantic. It was five o'clock before a reply came. It was: "Better stay. Let me write in mail today."

So he did not want her to come home. She waited nine days for his letter. When it came it was equivocal. It did not sound like Kirk:

"I doubt if there will be war this year. They've been crying it for so long. I'm convinced that no body will be insured enough to start it."

In thinking the whole thing over, I believe it is best for you to stay on for a while. Wait until the fall, at least."

Sonny took the letter down to the beach to read, so she could be alone. She felt as though her last anchor to home was gone. She understood quite well why Kirk did not want her back in New York.

Sonny tore the letter into tiny pieces and threw it into the sea, watching the bits of paper float away. She slipped Kirk's ring off her finger. She would never wear it again.

Then Martha came down looking for her.

"Come, you'll catch cold. This night wind is sharp. You're shivering."

Sonny went without protest. From now on she must build up a life for herself. But how could she? Kirk was her life. It would never be any different.

From that day on, there was a change in Leslie. Martha noticed it. She was restless, eager for fun and to be amused. She wanted to go places.

Martha did not understand. She noticed Sonny no longer wore her ring, and when she asked about it, the girl said casually that she was tired of it.

The Count was more attentive than ever. Sonny went everywhere with him. She ordered clothes recklessly from Paris.

The red-haired America girl was beginning to attract attention. She rented a smart open car, drove it at breakneck speed along the Cote d'Azur. Martha could not stop her, but she did refuse to ride with her when she was in one of her black moods. When Sonny spoke of going to Italy, Martha encouraged her. She wanted to get her away. She was afraid. Anything might happen to Sonny now.

So they went to Italy. Sonny was immediately the center of the gay crowd at Como. She motor-boated, swam, went to teas and dances.

"You'll get yourself in the newspapers," Martha warned.

"It doesn't matter!" was the girl's retort.

Martha thought of writing to Kirk. She finally decided that when an escapade occurred which created a lot of attention.

Sonny and a young Italian officer were motor-boating with some friends on the lake. The boat caught on fire. They were rescued by an American millionaire who was cruising there. The party returned to shore, none the worse for their experience, but Martha was really alarmed.

Kirk received Martha's letter after he had read an account of the episode in his morning paper. He wrote immediately to both Martha and Sonny. His letter to the latter was distraught. He begged her to be discreet. "I want you to have a grand time, Leslie. But there are limits. I thought you had your lesson."

She rumbled it up, threw it into the fireplace and went out to keep a tennis engagement with the young Italian officer.

That afternoon there was a message from the Count. He was to join his regiment shortly. Would Sonny come back? He wanted her and Mrs. Metzger to join him and his mother at their Paris home for a few weeks. Sonny read the letter carefully, knowing quite well that it meant Rene was going to propose to her.

That night when Sonny came home, Martha's light was still burning so she knocked on her door. "Is it too late to talk to you?" Sonny asked.

"I was hoping you'd come in," Sonny could see the worry in Martha's candid eyes.

"I had a letter from Rene today. He wants us to visit his mother."

"You know what the invitation means?" asked Martha.

"I might like being a Countess." "That's ridiculous. You're not in love with him."

Sonny stood up impatiently: "What is love? Nothing but trouble. He's cultured and charming and he's fond of me. He'll be good to me."

"He'll also get control of all your money."

"What does it matter? There's enough."

"It will matter a lot if there's war. Your money will be here, you'll probably lose most of it—"

"Nonsense. Rene has money. His people are wealthy. They have a marvelous house in Paris, also one in the country."

"None of these French families are wealthy any more."

"But I tell you I like him."

"Sonny, why don't you tell me what's wrong? You aren't yourself. You aren't interested in Rene, really. I've seen you together. I know."

Watching Sonny's rebellious face, she added: "I was wrong to write to Mr. Hollister."

Sonny tried to keep control of her voice. "Yes you were."

Martha was scared at the bitterness in her voice. "He won't permit this. He can stop you."

Sonny's voice was harsh as she answered: "He won't stop me."

Then the truth suddenly dawned on Martha. She remembered Sonny as she stood with Kirk in the living room of her home that New Year's Eve. "You're in love with Kirk, Leslie."

"Don't be ridiculous," Sonny snapped. "I've decided to marry Rene. Martha. Nothing can stop me. And I want you to keep out of this. You've done enough damage already."

Martha realized she had been wrong in writing Kirk. She tried to explain, but Sonny would not listen. There was nothing more she could do.

They left Como three days later. Rene met them when the train pulled into Nice. He looked extravagantly handsome in his uniform, thinner and more serious. And he kissed Sonny openly when he met them.

"I thought we'd stay over for a day so you can get rested, then go on north. Paris will be lovely now. The chestnut trees will be blooming."

He smiled at Sonny possessively. "You look lovely. I shall be happy to show you Paris. Mother's in the town house for the season. But I want you to come to the country with us later—that is, if things go well."

He means if his mother likes me, Sonny thought, amused. And she wondered what the old French woman would think of her.

They got into Paris in the morning, and the family car was waiting for them, an ancient Dalmier which made Sonny want to laugh.

The de Duverges lived over off the Avenue Foch in a great stone house with a high wall around it. The servants were out full force to welcome the oldest son, but Madame was not up yet.

"Mother will see you at lunch time, Sonny."

Martha and Sonny were shown to their rooms, two great adjoining chambers. To reach them, you climbed up a dark, winding staircase. The rooms too had stone floors and were freezing.

A servant brought Sonny and Martha hot chocolate and rolls, which they ate bundled up in their coats.

Great red curtains covered the windows. The furniture was dark and heavy. The beds looked inviting, but when Sonny sat on one, she found it hard and lumpy.

The rooms were filled with flowers, great masses of lilac and violets.

"How can they bloom when it is so cold?" Sonny asked as she touched the blossoms.

"Why should anybody board up a fireplace?" Martha, questioned pointing to the ancient closed hearth, with its carved wood mantel.

"I suppose to save fuel."

They unpacked and Sonny put on a black wool frock. "I must look dignified," she said.

Spring Conditioning that's TAILORED TO YOUR CAR!

Come in Now for a FREE Inspection by Authorized Factory-Trained Mechanics that Will Show Exactly what Attention YOUR Car Needs.

HOW'S YOUR CLUTCH ACTION? Did you know that a clutch that is not operating properly can result in too-rapid tire wear? That's one of the things our tailored spring servicing catches.

ARE YOUR WHEELS IN LINE? Misaligned front wheels not only wear tires rapidly but may interfere with proper car control. One of many instances where it's better to check up and be sure.

GOOD BRAKES MEAN SAFETY PLUS. Brakes ought to be kept in proper adjustment for safety reasons alone. Beyond that, brakes that are "out" can also result in unnecessarily increased tire wear. For best results, let Buick men adjust your Buick brakes to Buick factory specifications.

LICK-AND-A-PROMISE spring conditioning won't do this year, mister!

You've got something more important to think about than just changing oil and grease—you've got a whole car that will have to see you through the duration, and you can't afford to overlook any part of it.

That's why Buick spring service is tailored to your own particular car.

We change oil and grease in the regular way, of course—we check batteries, cooling systems, wheel alignment and other routine matters.

Your whole car lasts longer when it is conditioned as a unit—especially when trained Buick specialists do the job.

So we write your spring conditioning ticket to fit your car's needs—not to make up a ready-made "package" according to average requirements.

The cost is no higher than for a comparably good job anywhere else. It's actually lower in the long run, because it pays to have a job done right.

Drop in for a FREE check-up by our authorized factory-trained mechanics and let us detail the service your car should have this spring.

SHELLS HIT COAST DURING F.D.R. TALK

Nations, so that the Allies would be isolated and then conquered one by one.

The United Nations had been forced to yield ground and might have to yield more, he acknowledged, but he added:

"Actually we are taking a heavy toll of the enemy every day that goes by."

Specifically, he said, "to date—and including Pearl Harbor—we have destroyed considerably more Japanese planes than they have destroyed of ours."

Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed, American forces in the southwest Pacific battle theatre were steadily growing.

Transportation difficulties had been immense, he said, "but I can tell you that in two and a half months we already have a large number of bombers and pursuit planes, manned by American pilots, which are now in daily contact with the enemy in the southwest Pacific."

Cites "Thousands of Troops"

"And thousands of American troops are today in that area engaged in operations not only in the air but on the ground as well."

This was the first official intimation that a sizeable vanguard of an A. E. F. was on the scene of action.

Turning to the debit side, Mr. Roosevelt discussed the situation in the Philippines in terms that left no room for optimism on the possibilities of girding or relieving General MacArthur. The turn of events there, he said, had long been anticipated.

"For forty years it has been our strategy—a strategy born of necessity—that in event of a full scale attack on the islands by Japan, we should fight a delaying action, attempting to retire slowly into Bataan peninsula and Corregidor."

"Nothing that has occurred in the past two months has caused us to revise this basic strategy of necessity—except that the defense put up by General MacArthur has magnificently exceeded the previous estimates of endurance; and he and his men are gaining eternal glory therefor."

The President paid tribute not only to MacArthur's men, but to the fighting forces of the United Nations in China, in Burma and in the Indies.

His Rumor Mongers

He administered stern reproof to "the rumor mongers and poison peddlers in our midst" for "damnable misstatements" on American war losses, and he called attention to the promptness with which Axis propagandists seized on such material to encourage defeatism.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the consequences of the attack on Pearl Harbor had been "wildly exaggerated" in weird rumors of staggering losses.

Cautioning the people against placing stock in unfounded gossip of this character, the chief executive promised that the country would be kept informed on the trend of war.

"Your government," he declared, "has unshakeable confidence in your ability to hear the worst without flinching or losing heart. You must, in turn, have complete confidence that your government is keeping nothing from you except information that will help the enemy in his attempt to destroy us."

While acknowledging the reverses suffered to date, Mr. Roosevelt had this to say "once and for all to the people of the world:—

"We Americans have been compelled to yield ground, but we will regain it. We and the other United Nations are committed to the destruction of the militarism of Japan and Germany. We are daily increasing our strength. Soon, we and not our enemies, will have the offensive; we, not they, will win the final battles; and we, not they, will make the final peace."

Well Reach Goals

As proof of increasing strength, he reported that a careful survey of war production satisfied him that the nation would attain the 1942 goals he set on Jan. 6 when he called for 66,000 planes; 45,000 tanks; 20,000 anti-aircraft guns, and 8,000,000 tons of shipping.

For all Americans, the President set these three high purposes in the war effort:

"1. We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises we shall keep on working while the dispute is solved by mediation, conciliation or arbitration—until the war is won."

"2. We shall not demand special gains or special privileges or advantages for any one group or occupation."

"3. We shall give up conveniences and modify the routine of our lives if our country asks us to do so. We will do it cheerfully, remembering that the common enemy seeks to destroy every home and every freedom in every part of our land."

The President mentioned the "splendid counter-offensive" of the Russians as essential to United Nations strategy, and derided Axis propagandists who have said that the British are finished and that the Russians and Chinese were about to quit.

How Japanese Naval Air Bases Now Dot Pacific

This self-explanatory map shows how Japanese naval and air bases now dot the far Pacific ocean, adding to the difficulty of Allied movements in the theater of war which extends over thousands of miles but now is concentrated in the Dutch East Indies. According to observers, Japanese naval strategy is aimed at preventing a United Nations' advance into the Orient. The Jap fleet, it is pointed out, holds an impregnable body of water, the Sea of Japan, 240 miles long. Within this sea are Japan's principal naval bases and her industrial cities. From the inland sea as a center, naval and air bases stretch out in a complex system. The Asiatic mainland is fringed with islands from Kamchatka to the Malay peninsula. Japan holds sovereignty over the upper two-thirds of the fringe. Now Japan is seeking to add the lower third by conquering the whole Dutch East Indies.

Can Judge Order Amputation?

Has a judge the power to issue an order providing for the amputation of a child's arm, as decided on by physicians who believe the child may die within a few years if an amputation is not performed? That is the question a Washington state supreme court must decide in the strange case involving Patricia Hudson, 11, of Seattle, Wash., and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Hudson. Patricia was born with a disproportionately large arm. Seattle doctors have expressed the opinion that unless amputation takes place, the child may die within a few years. Patricia's father is an invalid. The child's mother has asked the Washington supreme court to prohibit an order for the amputation, expressing the fear that the operation might cause the child's death.

CARROLLS DEFEAT SAXONS, AVENGE EARLIER SETBACK

Tradesmen Topple Salem China As West Side Edges Trojans

The Carroll Club cagers of the Class A loop avenged an earlier defeat inflicted upon them by the Saxons by edging that team in a tight ball game at the Memorial building last night by a 32-30 count. Both teams made all shots count as the game ran close all the way but the Carrolls were the superior team at the foul stripe and it was this superiority that gave them the game after a hard fight.

Kozar and "Torch" Nedelka paced the Carrolls in the scoring department with 10 and nine points respectively while Schuster tallied nine to lead the Saxons. Bob "Buck" Ritchie, the Carrolls high point man, was held to four points by an alert Saxon defense. Switzer and W. Linder also looked good for the losers.

In the first game on the card last night, the Salem Chinas opposed the Trades Class with only four men and although they scrapped all the way, that one man running loose was a little too much and the Tradesmen won going away, 41-27. Both teams battled evenly for the first half with the Trades Class holding a 14-11 advantage at halftime.

Then they turned on the heat and the undermanned China could not match them. Ralph "Jerk" Landwert, elongated pivot man for the Trades Class, was unstoppable as he flipped in 10 buckets and a trio of free shots for a 23-point total. Tony Julian tallied 12 to lead the Pottery five.

Featuring their fine zone defense which was bottled up more than one big scoring threat this round, the West Side A. C. tripped the favored Trojans by a 28-24 margin. Bob Pasco featured for the winners as he hit the hoop for 10 while Henry "Dumps" Balesley, "Pinky" King and Johnny Drakulich starred for the winners with nine, seven and six points respectively.

Illini Top Badgers, Near Big Ten Crown

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The Big Ten basketball championship today was within the reach of the University of Illinois five that started the season billed "as the greenest and tallest in Illinois history."

A 45 to 43 victory over Wisconsin last night, coupled with a 35 to 12 loss conquest over Indiana, assured the Illini a share of the title. One more victory to add to the already impressive record of 11 wins and only one defeat will secure the first undisputed Illinois cage championship since 1915.

Last night's result led to a four-way tie among Indiana, Iowa, Purdue and Minnesota, each with eight victories and four defeats, for second place in the standings. Saturday night Minnesota will play at Indiana and Purdue will face Iowa at Iowa City.

Purdue had little trouble in subduing Northwestern last night, 56 to 40. Chicago absorbed its fourteenth Big Ten defeat of the season from Michigan, in a 61 to 37 encounter.

Bucs Have First Drill
EL CENTRO, Calif.—The Pittsburgh Pirates wasted no time in starting their first workout. Hardly had the train stopped yesterday before Manager Frankie Frisch led his 25 hopefuls to the ball park. Coach Hooten Wagner, who celebrated his 68th birthday anniversary Monday, will leave Pittsburgh Saturday with the second batch of Pirates.

BOWLING RESULTS

With Jim Armstrong setting a torrid 633 pace, the Althouse Motors added to their lead in the Quaker City bowling league last night as they trimmed the Arcos three straight at the Grate alleys. Armstrong compiled his high total on games of 194, 225 and 214. Earl Grate of the same team took high game honors for the match, firing a 230 in his second game. Willis and Althouse racked up a 204 game apiece. The Motors are now in first place by a healthy margin of seven games.

The third place Golden Eagle five blew another chance to gain on the leaders as they dropped two to the Masons. Bill Hull, rolling for the Eagles, was the only man to show 200 or over during the course of the match. He had a 201.

Capel's also lost a fine chance to get somewhere as they bowed twice to Coy's. Dal DeRhodes of the losers copped high game honors with a 214. Gonda's kept their streak going and trimmed the Lape Hotels three straight. Weickart fired a 204 for the winners.

In other matches on the card, Hawk's, fast rising from their position near the cellar, took two from Bliss and the Mullins Cutters shut out the Quaker Orphans. Nick Nann rolled a 204 for the Bliss outfit while no other high individual scores were registered.

PUGILISTS OF DAY SOFTIES, SAYS OLD TIME LIGHTHEAVY

Bat Levinsky Fought 56 Times In Year Of 1914 Alone

PHILADELPHIA — Battling Levinsky, the old light-heavyweight champion who loafed through 1914 by meeting 56 ring foes, says there is nothing the matter with present-day pugilism that rougher, tougher and meaner fighting men won't cure.

"Boxers today don't look their part," Levinsky complained, a little sadly. "They dress like gentlemen, talk like the best English, read Shakespeare and look like bankers."

"I think the ring game would be better off with some big, rough-house guys, the likes of Gumboat Smith, Harry Greb, Bob Fitzsimmons, Bill Brennan and Jack Dempsey."

"Of course, now, you can't say Joe Louis isn't rough house already. He's a great fighter, but he's rest of 'em — softies."

The Battler, now 51 and a shipyard steel worker, clouted his way through 350 fights from 1907 to 1926 and picked up close to $500,000 along the way. Most of it went into real estate, he says, and disappeared during the depression.

He won the American lightweight title from Jack Dillon at Boston in 1916 and lost it to Gene Tunney at New York in 1922.

"Dillon was the hardest puncher and greatest fighter I met," said Levinsky. "Although I took some hard knocks from Dempsey, Greb and Brennan, too, Tunney was the cleverest and most scientific fighter. He had everything figured out in advance."

Bat admits he might be prejudiced about Dillon—he fought him 10 times.

Levinsky—his first name is Barney—didn't get hooked up with "Dumb Dan" Morgan as manager. Morgan, who was anything but dumb, used Bat in nine fights in January of busy 1914. In March, 1916, he sent him to the post 11 times, six of them in one week.

"You know," said the battler, "if it had been legal to fight on Sunday, I believe Morgan would have found still more work for me."

PORTLAND, Ore. — Suzanne Zimmerman of Portland's Multinational club, swimming team, was clocked at 5:40.1 for a new 440-yard national junior woman's free style record. The 16-year-old Oregonian, swimming in the Oregon A. U. meet, clipped 24.1 seconds from the record set by Rachel Knowles of Portland, Me. two years ago.

Boudreau Splits Drills
CLEARWATER, Fla. — Manager Lou Boudreau says that for the first time in at least 26 years the Cleveland Indians will split their daily workouts during the first week with the calisthenics and paper games in the forenoon and batting drills after lunch.

"Certainly no one can deny that we can stand some improvement in our hitting department," commented the young chieftain.

OHIO'S BIG NAME TEAMS DROP FROM UNBEATEN RANKS

Martins Ferry, Vikings Of Akron North Are Upset Victims

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Feb. 24.—Ohio's high school basketball titles in Class A and Class B will not be decided for a month, but two things were certain today.

One is that a new Class B king will be crowned, for the defending Glenford team is out of the running, having been defeated in the opening round of the Perry county tournament—the first step on the long trail to the finals.

Another certainty was that the new Class A ruler—whichever it might be—will have tasted defeat somewhere along the way. That became probable last week when Akron North, Columbus South and Athens fell from the undefeated list, leaving only little Monroe township of Butler county and Cleveland Glenville unbeaten in the "A" ranks.

Glenville is one of the Cuyahoga county teams which does not compete in the tournaments, so its unbeaten record of 10 straight offerings no menace to the title-seeking clubs. And Monroe, in winning 15 in a row, has compiled its record against a conglomeration of A and B squads, the latest being a 27-26 conquest of North College Hill.

Three distinct upsets swept the last of the Class A powerhouses out of the clean sector. Akron North, after winning 16 in a row, bowed to Akron Kenmore by 33-24; Columbus South's 12-game streak was halted by Columbus West, 39-28, and Athens, with 12 in a row, was nosed out in an overtime period, 36-25, by Pomeroy.

Martins Ferry, the defending Class A champion, piled up 16 in a row, and then dropped its second straight to Tiltonsville last week, while Spring Valley of Green county, along with Delphos St. John, suffered their second setback of the campaign.

The Spring Valley squad, winner of 21 of 22, lost a 35 to 26 decision to Bellbrook in the county tournament, but is still in the running due to the double elimination system. Ames-Bern has won 20 and lost two, both losses being to Rome of New Concord with 16, Brecksville and Monroe with 15, and Cleveland Glenville with 10.

The Class B records mean nothing, since practically all the squads will see action in the county tournaments this week and next, all starting from "scratch" in the title chase.

Delphos St. John and Toledo Central went into a Sunday game with records of 20 wins and one defeat, but Central came out on top 55-36.

With the three big Class A teams going out, only nine of the state's 1156 squads remain unbeaten. They are Lorain Clearview and Middle-town of Van Wert county with 18, Ridgeway, Bristol and Bremen with 17, New Concord with 16, Brecksville and Monroe with 15, and Cleveland Glenville with 10.

LULU COSTANTINO SETS SIGHTS FOR WRIGHT, WILSON

Manhattan Featherweight Undefeated In 52 Pro Fights

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, Wide World Features

NEW YORK — Manhattan's Ghetto has come up with another lulu of a fighter, the best featherweight prospect in sight, and his name is Carlo (Lulu) Costantino. Lulu has gone 52 straight fights without a defeat. The other night he celebrated his 20th birthday by outpointing Joey Archibald, the former king of the featherweights, and now Lulu's yelling at the champions to come out and fight.

"I can lick 'em both," he says, referring to Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson, the NBC champion, and Chalky Wright, who wears a title by grace of the New York Athletic Commission.

Jimmy Johnston's youngest brother, Charley, manages Costantino and thinks Lulu is a nifty piece of fighting machinery. "He has 1156 squads remain unbeaten. They are Lorain Clearview and Middle-town of Van Wert county with 18, Ridgeway, Bristol and Bremen with 17, New Concord with 16, Brecksville and Monroe with 15, and Cleveland Glenville with 10."

marines and this was larger than any of those in the U. S. navy that I have seen.

"It was lying idly on the surface. Then it began shelling, shot after shot, with great regularity. I counted 12 shells that burst, most of them on the Staniff place (where Brown lives) and the Barnsdall Oil Co. lease. I spotted the last shell at 7:35 p. m.

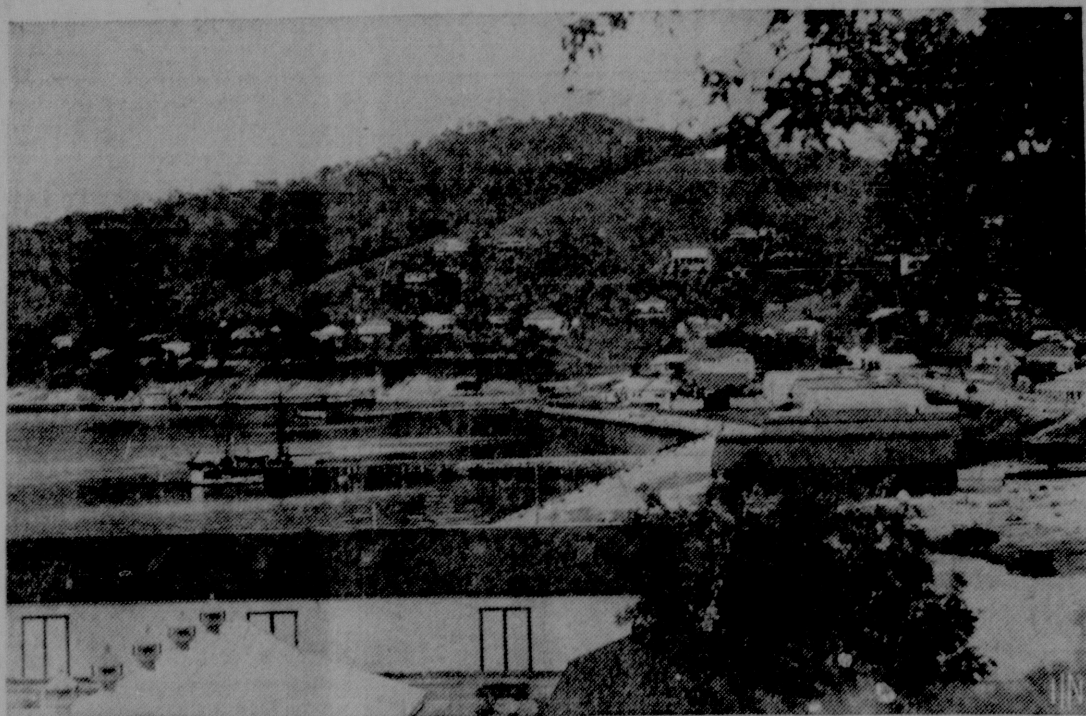

The submarine still lay on the surface. It started to get twilight. I watched it as long as I could distinguish its form and then it grew dark. It didn't submerge and there were no airplanes heard."

Traffic along the coast highway, No. 101, was halted because of the blackout and army guards kept curious from approaching the scene of the attack.

One of the shells whistled three miles inland to the Teolote ranch, where it exploded. Another cleared the highway and burst in the foothills. Others fell short, on the beach.
